

ABSTRACT

In a structure for rotatably supporting a rotary body including a rotary shaft of the present invention, the rotary shaft is assembled integrally with or rigidly
5 affixed to end plates, which are fitted in axially opposite ends of the rotary body, beforehand. The rotary body is therefore rotatable relative to or integrally with the rotary shaft.